LATIN AMERICA AND THE CARIBBEAN

Cartagena de Indias (Colombia), 18-20 April 2018

GENERAL INFORMATION
PRESENTATION

The sixth Ministerial Conference on the Information Society in Latin America and the Caribbean will be held in Cartagena de Indias (Colombia), from 18 to 20 April 2018.

This document is intended to provide delegates with useful information to facilitate their work at the Conference.

The meeting coordinators will be available to answer any questions concerning logistical or organizational matters that delegates may have before or during the meeting.

1. General information on Cartagena de Indias

Cartagena de Indias is the capital of the Bolívar department (Colombia). It was founded on 1 June 1533 by Pedro de Heredia. The government declared Cartagena a tourism and cultural district in 1991. The city is located on the shore of the Caribbean Sea.

Since it was founded in the sixteenth century and throughout the Spanish colonial era, Cartagena de Indias was one of the most important ports in the Americas. Most of the city's artistic and cultural heritage dates from this period. Cartagena declared its independence from Spain on 11 November 1811. This date is a national holiday in Colombia and the independence celebrations, the “Fiestas de Independencia”, in the city last four days.

Cartagena has long been associated with the history of pirates. During the colonial era the city was repeatedly attacked by pirates from Europe, as its location made it vulnerable to raids. As a result, it became the most heavily defended city in South America and the Caribbean, in fact it was almost as fortified as the whole Gulf of Mexico at the time. Its colonial architecture is now being preserved.

Over time, Cartagena has developed its urban area, by preserving the historic centre, and has become one of the most important ports of Colombia, the Caribbean and the world, as well as a famous tourist destination. Today, the city has a total population of 971,700 inhabitants, making it the fifth most populous municipality in the country. Its historic centre, the walled city, was declared National Heritage of Colombia in 1959 and a World Heritage Site by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) in 1984. In 2007, its military architecture was chosen by the public as the fourth wonder of Colombia.

Climate

Cartagena de Indias has a humid tropical climate and an average temperature of 29°C. Relative humidity in the city is 90%, and the rainy season typically lasts from April-May to October-November. Although the city tends to have hot temperatures year-round, there is a sea breeze that makes the climate agreeable.

The temperature in the city ranges from 30°C to 33°C.
